Proposal to the Senate Educational Policy Committee

PROPOSAL TITLE:
Establish the Jewish Studies Concentration within the BALAS in Interdisciplinary Studies

SPONSOR:
Matti Bunzl, Director Program in Jewish Culture and Society, 109 English Building, Bunzl@illinois.edu

COLLEGE CONTACT:
Diane Musumeci, Associate Dean, Liberal Arts and Sciences, musumeci@illinois.edu, 3-1350.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION:
We wish to create a concentration that provides students with knowledge of the Hebrew language, the opportunity to begin a study of Yiddish, and a broad appreciation of Jewish religion, culture, and history. Previously, students could study Hebrew language with the Hebrew Language and Linguistics Concentration within the Department of Linguistics. However, the Department of Linguistics has requested to discontinue the linguistics concentration, and the Hebrew language courses have been moved to the Program in Jewish Culture and Society. A formal request to discontinue the Hebrew Language and Linguistics Concentration is forthcoming.

JUSTIFICATION:
After four years under new leadership, the Program in Jewish Culture and Society (PJCS) is poised to take the next curricular step to meet student demand in Jewish Studies, namely the establishment of a Jewish Studies Concentration within the BALAS in Interdisciplinary Studies. This would succeed a much older concentration that was housed in Linguistics, dating to a time when Hebrew was within that department. The language is now housed in the PJCS. More importantly, the PJCS has grown from an interdisciplinary unit with about a dozen faculty affiliates to one with nearly 40. As a consequence, our offerings have multiplied and greatly diversified. Hebrew continues to be important. But other areas -- such as Eastern European history and culture and Holocaust Studies -- are even more prominent. A Jewish Studies Concentration within the BALAS in Interdisciplinary Studies would reflect this expansion and make Jewish Studies an even more attractive option for our students.

The major would offer students an opportunity to study in depth the academic discipline of Jewish Studies in all of its well-established facets. Students will have a choice of interdisciplinary courses with which to fulfill the major, ranging from the study of Judaism as a religion to the 3,000-year tradition of literature and philosophy in its broad context in the histories of the Near East, Europe, and the Americas. Majors in Jewish Studies will be in an excellent position to pursue graduate programs in Jewish Studies as well as cognate disciplines, including history, anthropology, literature, and religious studies. Some students may choose to go on to a career in the Jewish social world (e.g., in Jewish education or social service agencies) or one of the rabbinical seminaries.

The major in Jewish Studies replaces the old Hebrew concentration in the Department of Linguistics with its exclusive focus on language, while retaining a strong language component, essential to any competency in the study of Jewish culture. The emphasis on interdisciplinary cultural and historical study as well as the strong language component differentiate the Jewish Studies major from the concentration in Judaism within the major offered by the Department of Religion. The Religion faculty unanimously support the creation of the Jewish Studies major.

Curricular oversight and decisions regarding additional courses counting toward the three basic rubrics of Religion, Culture, and History will be made by the Executive Committee of the Program in Jewish Culture and Society, made up of tenure-line faculty affiliated with the Program. Advising for individual students pursuing the major will be provided by the Associate Director of the Program in Jewish Culture and Society whose purview also includes serving as the Director of Undergraduate Studies. Professor Bruce Rosenstock currently serves in this capacity.

BUDGETARY AND STAFF IMPLICATIONS:

a. Additional staff and dollars needed: No additional staff beyond the current full-time position in Hebrew language instruction (now Dr. Yore Kedem).

b. Internal reallocations (e.g., change in class size, teaching loads, student-faculty ratio, etc.) No changes. Advising will continue to be handled by our current Associate Director. Other faculty members in PJCS will also be available to provide support.

c. Effect on course enrollment in other units and explanations of discussions with representatives of those departments: No effect (the existing capacity in the courses is sufficient to accommodate increased enrollments).

d. Impact on the University Library. No impact.

e. Impact on computer use, laboratory use, equipment, etc. No impact (no special multimedia classrooms are required and the existing language facilities suffice).

DESIRED EFFECTIVE DATE: Fall 2013

Interdisciplinary Studies Majors

Departments in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, in addition to their own disciplinary majors, have developed and sponsor an interdisciplinary program of study, which encompasses several distinct programs designed to acquaint students in a coherent manner with topics that cross disciplinary boundaries. Administered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, the interdisciplinary studies major includes program concentrations in American Civilization, Jewish Studies, Medieval Civilization, and Renaissance Studies. Although it is not possible to offer concentrations in all specialties or topics of humanistic study, students whose interests do not coincide with one of the specific concentrations are encouraged to consider developing their own programs through the Individual Plans of Study (IPS) major. Enrollment in the major in interdisciplinary studies requires election of one of the concentrations. The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences also sponsors an Interdisciplinary Minor in Science and Technology in Society.

Each concentration of the major in interdisciplinary studies is supervised by faculty members whose own scholarship and educational interests have involved them in interdisciplinary teaching and research. An advisor for students is available in each concentration and is responsible for approving students' plans of study.

Major in Sciences and Letters Curriculum

E-mail: ips@illinois.edu
Degree title: Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts and Sciences
Minimum required major and supporting course work equates to 45-51 hours.
General education: Students must complete the Campus General Education requirements.
Minimum hours required for graduation: 120 hours

Departmental distinction. To be eligible for graduation with distinction, a student must have a college grade point average of 3.5, a major concentration grade point average of 3.5, completion of HUM 498 with a grade of A, and completion of a semester paper in 498 that is judged to be deserving of "distinction" by a committee of at least two faculty members.

High distinction. To be eligible for graduation with high distinction, a student must have a college grade point average of 3.5, a major concentration grade point average of 3.7, and must have completed HUM 492 (instead of HUM 498) with a grade of A and a thesis in 492 that is judged to be deserving of "high distinction" by a committee of at least two faculty members.

Requirements for the Major

Elect one of the concentrations offered within the major and file a concentration declaration with the LAS Student Academic Affairs Office no later than the end of the first semester of the junior year. Students who do not begin work on concentration requirements by the junior year will be at a disadvantage.

Select specific courses counted toward completion of a concentration with the advice and approval of the concentration advisor, subject to specific concentration requirements. Students are strongly encouraged also to enroll in 6-7 hours of Western civilization (HIST 140 or 141 and 142 or 143, or CWL 241 and 242).

For the elected concentration, complete the stated minimum number of hours in courses applicable toward the major and in accord with the distribution requirements listed below; at least 25 hours must be at the 200, 300 or 400 level.

All campus General Education and foreign language requirements must be satisfied.

American Civilization Concentration

No change

Jewish Studies Concentration

This concentration provides the student with knowledge of the Hebrew language, the opportunity to begin a study of Yiddish, and a broad appreciation of Jewish religion, culture, and history.

Dear Jean-Philippe,

As you can see from below, the LAS Courses and Curriculum Committee has approved the move of the Hebrew major from Linguistics to Jewish Studies (I am attaching the proposal to this note).

Some of the courses that count toward fulfilling the major are housed in your department. With that in mind, and to finalize the transition, we need a short letter from you (an e-mail is just fine), affirming that the department is ok with our students using these courses. We are talking about a handful of students at the very most.

All best and many thanks!

Matti,

The LAS Courses and Curriculum Committee has reviewed the proposal to transfer and revise Hebrew Language and Literature from Linguistics to the Jewish Studies Concentration in Interdisciplinary Studies. The program change was approved by the Committee. However, we cannot move it forward to the other governing bodies without the signatures from Jewish Studies, Linguistics, and SLCL on page 5 of the document.

In addition, we need endorsement letters from the departments that will be providing some of the courses your students will need: Religion, German, Anthropology, and History. Basically, we want to know that these departments are okay with your students using their courses.

Please let me know if you have any questions about the above. We are looking forward to the new program.

I see Religion, German, Anthropology, and History in the email thread below, but not English. So I thought maybe I was included on the original email in error. Nevertheless, it is fine with English if students use our classes to fulfill requirements in a Hebrew major.

I just looked at the paper work you forwarded me regarding the move of the major in Hebrew from Linguistics to Jewish Studies. I think this is a very good idea. The Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures welcomes this move and sees no adverse effects to its students. Dear Dr. Musumeci:

Thank you for giving the University Library the opportunity to review the College of Liberal Arts and Science’s proposal to the Senate Committee on Educational Policy to establish a Jewish Studies Concentration within the Bachelors of Arts in Liberal Arts and Science (BSLAS) Degree. Based upon the proposal that we reviewed, we anticipate that there will be little to no impact on the Library with respect to collections. In terms of operational impact, we consider this to be minimal as well. Indeed, it is our opinion that there are actually good opportunities for faculty or students involved in the program to take advantage of services offered by our personnel.

Sincerely,
