Program Description and Justification
Justification for proposal change:

The department’s goal is to enable students to start the major- and minor-track at an earlier stage in their studies, and to make their own choices within the course offerings of the department. We aim for a relatively ‘open’ model for the major. The new major gives students more flexibility to assemble their own individualized course of study from existing 200-, 300-, and 400-level course offerings, following their own specific interests and professional goals. Additionally, fewer students nowadays come with AP credit in German. As a result, we have more students starting with the 101–104 sequence. The new major and minor will allow them to take courses towards the major and minor while still enrolled in the 101–104 sequence (in the current curriculum there is only one course that qualifies). In the following we list explanations for the aggregate changes proposed above:

1. The change of name from German Culture and Literature concentration to the German Studies concentration reflects the fact that the program allows students to go for specializations other than culture and literature, for instance by opting for courses on German society, Germany and the European Union, translation, etc.

2. The reduction of the number of specific required courses for the “German Studies” concentration will allow the student, in consultation with the department’s undergraduate advisor, more freedom to choose among courses offered by the department, and it will put less pressure on the department to offer specific courses with low enrollments (which are currently required for some concentrations). The decision of which courses will be taken toward the major will be made by the student and the advisor jointly. The advisor and the student will stay in close touch and meet at least once a semester.

Assessment of the students’ progress will take place in GER 211, 212 and 420 – courses required for all students in the major.

3. Students opting for the German Business and Commercial Studies concentration give preference to a pre-professional track in our major: they hope to use German as a language and their knowledge of German society and culture in their future professions. For that reason, they may also, in consultation with the undergraduate advisor, opt for different courses in the elective section of the major (GER 401--Global Issues in German and GER 403--German-English Translation are popular courses for this concentration, for example). The undergraduate advisor will make sure that the student opts for a package of courses that is in line with her/his professional goals, and will meet with the student frequently to ensure that this is the case.

4. We will not accept GER 320, German for Business and GER 321, German for Economics as electives for the “German Studies” concentration to make sure that the German Studies concentration is sufficiently different in requirements from the German Business and Commercial Studies concentration. Dropping the supporting coursework requirement will allow our students to move through our major faster; in practice student’s work out their own arrangements combining majors / minors during their time at Illinois. Many majors in German are double majors. Current students in the German major
Is This a Teacher Certification Program?
No

Will specialized accreditation be sought for this program?
No

Admission Requirements
Desired Admissions Term

Provide a brief narrative description of the admission requirements for this program. Where relevant, include information about licensure requirements, student background checks, GRE and TOEFL scores, and admission requirements for transfer students.

Describe how critical academic functions such as admissions and student advising are managed.

Enrollment

Describe how this revision will impact enrollment and degrees awarded.

The revisions to the concentrations will allow the department more flexibility in meeting student demand and interest. We envision that this will lead to higher enrollments in our existing courses and help enrollment in new courses to be developed.

Resource Implications

Facilities

Will the program require new or additional facilities or significant improvements to already existing facilities?

No

Technology

Will the program need additional technology beyond what is currently available for the unit?

No

Non-Technical Resources

Will the program require additional supplies, services or equipment (non-technical)?

No

Resources

Faculty Resources

Please address the impact on faculty resources including any changes in numbers of faculty, class size, teaching loads, student-faculty ratios, etc. Describe how the unit will support student advising, including job placement and/or admission to advanced studies.

The changes are designed to be implemented without adding additional faculty. We think the changes will lead to higher enrollments in existing classes. Some classes that until now did not qualify for credit towards the major, like GER 493 and 494, two German cinema courses, will now count as electives towards the major. The ‘open’ nature of the new major – the fact that students can choose from a range of classes instead of having to take specific classes – will encourage faculty to develop new classes with high-enrollment potential.

Library Resources

Describe your proposal’s impact on the University Library’s resources, collections, and services. If necessary please consult with the appropriate disciplinary specialist within the University Library.

We do not envision any impact on library resources.
Instructional Resources

Will there be any reduction in other course offerings, programs or concentrations by your department as a result of this new program/proposed change?

No

Does this new program/proposed change result in the replacement of another program?

No

Does the program include other courses/subjects impacted by the creation/revision of this program?

No

Financial Resources

How does the unit intend to financially support this proposal?

No additional budgetary investments will be necessary. In fact, we think the new major will allow the department to function more efficiently regarding budget. Low-enrolled courses currently required for the major can be offered less frequently or dropped from the schedule. Since the new version of the major allows for more electives, the department has more flexibility introducing new courses that can be added as options for the major (and minor).

Will the unit need to seek campus or other external resources?

No

Will an existing tuition rate be used or continue to be used for this program?

Yes

Program Regulation

Describe how the program is aligned with or meets licensure, certification, and/or entitlement requirements, if applicable.

Briefly describe the plan to assess and improve student learning, including the program’s learning objectives; when, how, and where these learning objectives will be assessed; what metrics will be used to signify student’s achievement of the stated learning objectives; and the process to ensure assessment results are used to improve student learning.

Is the career/profession for graduates of this program regulated by the State of Illinois?
Program of Study

“Baccalaureate degree requires at least 120 semester credit hours or 180 quarter credit hours and at least 40 semester credit hours (60 quarter credit hours) in upper division courses” (source: https://www.ibhe.org/assets/files/PrivateAdminRules2017.pdf). For proposals for new bachelor’s degrees, if this minimum is not explicitly met by specifically-required 300- and/or 400-level courses, please provide information on how the upper-division hours requirement will be satisfied.

All proposals must attach the new or revised version of the Academic Catalog program of study entry. Contact your college office if you have questions.

Revised programs

Attach a side-by-side comparison with the existing program AND, if the revision references or adds “chose-from” lists of courses students can select from to fulfill requirements, a listing of these courses, including the course rubric, number, title, and number of credit hours.
