Program Justification

Provide a brief description of what changes are being made to the program.

1. The curriculum is being reorganized along three explicitly-defined tracks Cinema Studies, Media Studies, and Critical Media Production and a General track.

2. The core courses will vary slightly depending on the track the student chooses to pursue. Each track has defined courses that fulfill requirements that students take at least one course each in Media Theory, Media History, Media Methods, and Media Production.
3. MACS 101 will be a required course for all MACS majors.

4. Remove thematic areas from curriculum.

5. Remove non-Media advanced hours requirement.

6. All majors are now required to complete a Capstone requirement. Students can choose from the listed courses including MACS 408, MACS 410, MACS 466, MACS 480/481, MACS 484, MACS 485, or MACS 496.

7. Added 12 hours of MACS electives to curriculum, including at least 3 hours at the 300- or 400-level

8. Listed six hours of Media Electives in major requirements.

9. Removing the 36 hours required in the College of Media statement.

10. Remove Area of Study or Minor Outside the College of Media.

11. Updated learning outcomes to match what is written in the Catalog.

Did the program content change 25% or more in relation to the total credit hours, since the 2020-2021 catalog. (http://catalog.illinois.edu/archivedacademiccatalogs/2020-2021/)

Yes
Why are these changes necessary?

1. The curriculum is being reorganized along three explicitly-defined tracks Cinema Studies, Media Studies, and Critical Media Production and a General track. The explicitly-designated tracks encourage students to specialize their academic approach to Media and Cinema Studies around Media, Cinema, or Production in a way that is systematic. There is also a general track that is available to students who choose not to select a specific track.

2. The core courses will vary slightly depending on the track the student chooses to pursue. Each track has defined courses that fulfill requirements that students take at least one course each in Media Theory, Media History, Media Methods, and Media Production. The requirements that students engage with Media Theory, History, Methods, and Production ensure that students learn essential concepts within their chosen specialization. These changes also facilitate administrative planning for course rotations and faculty allocation in MACS.

3. MACS 101 will be a required course for all MACS majors. MACS 101 provides knowledge and context that is important for all MACS majors, regardless of their track or specific career interests.

4. Remove thematic areas from curriculum. Thematic areas in the current curriculum were too broad and did not provide the guidance and direction as originally hoped. The tracks in the new curriculum will provide that direction for students while still leaving room for flexibility and exploration through MACS electives.

5. Remove non-Media advanced hours requirement. The current curriculum requires students take 20 hours outside of the College of Media at the 300- and 400-level. The department no longer feels this is necessary and has removed the requirement. Students were taking courses to complete the requirement but not being intentional in selecting courses that were of interest or beneficial. This was also proving to be a barrier for off-campus transfer students.

6. All majors are now required to complete a Capstone requirement. Students can choose from the listed courses including MACS 408, MACS 410, MACS 466, MACS 480/481, MACS 484, MACS 485, or MACS 496. These courses will help students to reflect upon and synthesize the work they have done across all other courses throughout their time at Illinois. It will help prepare them for their future careers.

7. Added 12 hours of MACS electives to curriculum, including at least 3 hours at the 300- or 400-level. These electives allow students to explore MACS courses that are of interest to them. They may choose to pursue a new part of the discipline or may dive deeper into their chosen interest area. The have the flexibility to choose.

8. Listed six hours of Media Electives in major requirements. This is an implied part of the current curriculum, but the new curriculum explicit lists these electives. They can be any MACS (not already being used for another part of the major), Advertising, Journalism, or Media course.
9. Removing the 36 hours required in the College of Media statement. Students will already earn these hours within the curriculum requirements, so this statement is not necessary.

10. Remove Area of Study or Minor Outside the College of Media. Students were not always intentional with the selection of area or study outside of Media. Removing it allows them to be more intentional with the course selection.

11. Updated learning outcomes to match what is written in the Catalog. These have been created with the Provost's Learning Outcomes Assessment team but have not been updated in CIM-P.

40 hours of Advanced Coursework

6 hours - Core Courses
3 hours - Capstone Course
3 hours - MACS Elective
28 hours - Free Elective

Note: MACS 350 and MACS 484 have been approved, effective Fall 2024, and will show as course not found until the Academic Catalog rolls to the next Academic Year, in early 2024. See CIM Course approval document in Program of Study section.

Program Regulation and Assessment

Plan to Assess and Improve Student Learning

Illinois Administrative Code: 1050.30(b)(1)(D) Provision is made for guidance and counseling of students, evaluations of student performance, continuous monitoring of progress of students toward their degree objectives and appropriate academic record keeping.
List the program’s student learning outcomes. Each outcome should identify what students are expected to know and/or be able to do upon completing this program.

Students in Media and Cinema Studies will be able to:

1. Demonstrate an understanding of media and cinema studies’ subject areas, and their respective concepts, theories, and methods.

2. Demonstrate a comprehension of foundational media and cinema studies’ theories and concepts. Demonstrate critical thinking skills.

3. Demonstrate the ability to critically evaluate media representations in relation to social justice issues. Demonstrate the ability to identify work collaboratively to successfully communicate ideas and explain problems outcomes of social power and social justice creative research across media products and processes, a range of modalities.

4. Demonstrate the ability to successfully communicate research outcomes and/or creative expressions across a range of modalities.

5. Demonstrate the ability to collaborate successfully and inclusively on research and/or creative projects, critically evaluate media representations in relation to social justice issues. Students in Media and Cinema studies are required to complete a portfolio (MACS 499) as their capstone project. The instructor of the course will assess whether students are meeting the learning outcomes stated above. The department will review the portfolios and make adjustments to courses and curriculum as necessary.

Describe how, when, and where these learning outcomes will be assessed.

Describe here:

Students’ learning outcomes will be assessed through individual assignments (papers, presentations, exams, and creative projects) as part of their required coursework in cinema studies, media studies, and/or media production methods, history, theory, and production.

Student will submit self-reflections in production courses to assess their individual performance when collaborating.

Student will submit peer reviews in production courses to offer peer feedback when collaborating.

External metrics (job placement statistics, alumni engagement) will be used to assess how our graduates are applying the knowledge and skills acquired from their major.

Students in Media and Cinema Studies are required to complete a 400-level capstone project. The instructor of the course will assess whether students are meeting the learning outcomes stated above. The department will review final projects or portfolios from these courses and make adjustments to courses and curriculum as necessary.
Identify faculty expectations for students’ achievement of each of the stated student learning outcomes. What score, rating, or level of expertise will signify that students have met each outcome? Provide rating rubrics as necessary.

Explain the process that will be implemented to ensure that assessment results are used to improve student learning.

Program Features

Academic Level: Undergraduate

Does this major have transcripted concentrations? No

What is the typical time to completion of this program? 4 years

What are the minimum Total Credit Hours required for this program? 124

Is This a Teacher Certification Program? No

Will specialized accreditation be sought for this program? No

Delivery Method

This program is available:
  On Campus - Students are required to be on campus, they may take some online courses.

Admission Requirements

Desired Effective Admissions Term

Is this revision a change to the admission status of the program? No

Provide a brief narrative description of the admission requirements for this program. Where relevant, include information about licensure requirements, student background checks, GRE and TOEFL scores, and admission requirements for transfer students.

We anticipate that this revision will gradually increase total enrollment and degrees awarded. Interest in media production is growing and we anticipate that most majors will select the Critical Media Production track.

Estimated Annual Number of Degrees Awarded
Year One Estimate

What is the matriculation term for this program? Fall

Budget

Are there budgetary implications for this revision? No

Will the program or revision require staffing (faculty, advisors, etc.) beyond what is currently available? No

Financial Resources

How does the unit intend to financially support this proposal?

Will the unit need to seek campus or other external resources? No

Attach letters of support

What tuition rate do you expect to charge for this program? e.g., Undergraduate Base Tuition, or Engineering Differential, or Social Work Online (no dollar amounts necessary)

Media Rate

Are you seeking a change in the tuition rate or differential for this program? No

Faculty Resources

Please address the impact on faculty resources including any changes in numbers of faculty, class size, teaching loads, student-faculty ratios, etc.

We do not anticipate any major near-term impacts on faculty resources. However, additional faculty may eventually be needed as the program grows.
Library Resources

Describe your proposal's impact on the University Library's resources, collections, and services. If necessary please consult with the appropriate disciplinary specialist within the University Library.

Library collections, resources, and services are sufficient to support this program.

Viewing: MACS 350 : Film Analysis and Criticism

Changes proposed by: cladmin-jmeyer

General Information

- Effective Term: Fall 2024
- College: Media, College of
- Department/Unit Name (ORG Code): Media and Cinema Studies (1436)
- Course Subject: Media and Cinema Studies (MACS)
- Course Number: 350
- Course Title: Film Analysis and Criticism
- Abbreviated Title: Film Analysis and Criticism

Course Description:
Methods course in formal analysis and critical writing about cinema. Students will learn how to segment films and other audiovisual objects down to their discrete elements, explain how these elements function as a system, and write precisely and engagingly about that functioning. Assignments include film segmentations, shot breakdowns, digital approaches to close and distant analysis, and critical essay writing in formats appropriate to both academic and popular film criticism.

Justification

Justification for change:
This course covers approaches to analyzing and writing about audiovisual media as a formal object; that is, as an intentionally and strategically composed deployment of visuals and sound to achieve some meaning or effect. Formal approaches are occasionally covered in individual courses within the MACS major where appropriate to that course. However, this course will package formal analysis and the practice of academic and popular film criticism as a way of sharpening students' skills and preparing them to write about media formally in a focused way. It will serve as the methods course for two of the tracks within the upcoming revisions to the MACS major (cinema studies and critical film production).

- Department/Unit Name (ORG Code): Media and Cinema Studies (1436)
- Course Subject: Media and Cinema Studies (MACS)
- Course Number: 484
- Course Title: Media Professionalization

Course Description:
Professional development capstone in Media and Cinema Studies. Students will reflect on past work, identify post-graduation goals, learn how to pursue further training and certification, identify networking opportunities, and prepare for interviews. Assignments include a portfolio of archived and revised course papers and projects, a collaborative project involving public presentation of findings at a university or college event, and compilation of appropriate job search or graduate school materials.

Justification

Justification for change:
Course is an expansion and formalization of the current senior portfolio project in Media and Cinema Studies, adding topics and training in professionalization, presentation, networking, and interviewing skills to prepare them to start their careers in media. Course will serve as one capstone option for the revised Media and Cinema Studies major.
