EP.26.016 Report on Proposals Approved with Altered Workflow that Includes Red Boxed Courses in Program of Study Tables

In an effort to help ensure that the Academic Catalog reflects the most current course offerings and accurate information for programs in a timely manner, programs with “red box errors” – courses in the program of study table that are no longer active and exist in a choose from list, have an updated rubric or course number with no other changes, or are listed with an incorrect number of credit hours, and potentially additional edits made to the General Education table for some proposals, were identified via review once workflow was started. Thus, Administrative Save was no longer an option. Once the proposals arrived at the Provost’s office, they were vetted for eligibility for altered workflow. Those that met the criteria had CIM-P workflow truncated to move from Provost queue to DMI.
