Program Justification

Provide a brief justification of the program, including highlights of the program objectives, and the careers, occupations, or further educational opportunities for which the program will prepare graduates, when appropriate.

The Department of Urban and Regional Planning proposes a new undergraduate concentration (one of three) for Fall 2027 in Environmental Planning and Design. A concentration in Environmental Planning and Design provides students with opportunities to explore the intersection of sustainability and urban planning. Additionally, this proposed concentration include several courses in which students further their design skills and their understanding of design-related concepts.

There is some similarity between this newly proposed concentration and the previous Sustainability concentration, which will be sunset once Spring 2027 admits and earlier have graduated. However, it is not considered a replacement for two reasons. First, the previous Sustainability concentration incorporated both urban sustainability and transportation as an urban sustainability initiative. In the Fall 2027 proposals, transportation has been identified as a singular concentration independent of sustainability. Second, the current proposal incorporates how design can lead solutions to environmental issues and identifies clearly that the environmental aspect has a basis in planning and not solely in sustainability science. Overall, when examining the previous Sustainability concentration and the proposed Environmental Planning and Design concentration 63% of the courses were retained (10/16) and 3 new courses were added (13 total courses).

The three proposed new concentrations have no overlapping courses. Students are, therefore, permitted to declare one, two, or three concentrations because they would need to complete all requirements for each concentration without potential for overlap. One concentration is required. Within each concentration, a minimum of 9 credit hours are required with at least 3 hours at the 300 or 400 (advanced) level. Current (spring 2026 and earlier) students may elect to switch to/declare one of the newer concentrations.

Instructional Resources

Will there be any reduction in other course offerings, programs or concentrations by your department as a result of this new program/proposed change?

Yes

Please describe:

- 1- Eliminate concentration: Global Cities
- 2- Eliminate concentration: Policy & Planning
- 3- Eliminate concentration: Social Justice
- 4- Eliminate concentration: Sustainability

Does this new program/proposed change result in the replacement of another program?

No

Does the program include other courses/subjects outside of the sponsoring department impacted by the creation/revision of this program?

Yes

Please email the Department Head or a CIM User in the Department Head role of the units that own the courses that are impacted by the creation/revision/phase down or elimination of this program. For example, if you are adding a course, you will need support from the course owning unit to do so. Likewise, if you are removing a course or adding additional courses where enrollment in existing courses in the program of study could be impacted, you will need acknowledgement from the course owning unit. If the program has potential for perceived overlap with another unit on campus, you should have consultation with the other unit/stakeholders. Once this is complete, acknowledge that you have done so below.

Acknowledged

Indicate which departments/units/stakeholders were notified/consulted by listing the name of the department(s). For example, if you are adding a course owned by the Department of Philosophy and a course owned by the Department of Theatre and notified the units accordingly, you would include in the box below: 1. Department of Philosophy; 2. Department of Theatre.

1. Department of Landscape Architecture
2. Department of Agricultural and Consumer Economics

Please attach any letters of support/acknowledgement for any Instructional Resources. Consider faculty, students, and/or other impacted units as appropriate.
